05 logo + marks

our logo

Our logo is our most valuable and important brand asset. Learn how to best represent the BlueCrew in any and all experiences. Do not use any combinations of colors or shades not stated here to represent BlueCrew.

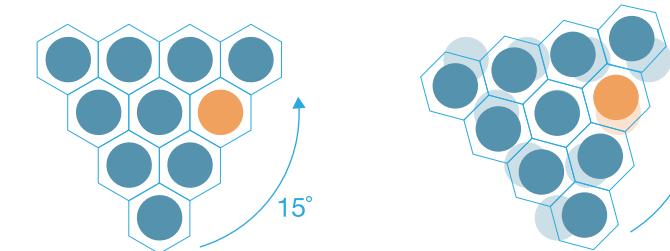

brandmark anatomy

The BlueCrew brandmark is made up of 10 circles, laid triangularly within a hexagonal grid. The spacing between the circles is $1/3$ of the diameter of a circle. The accent circle (orange) is placed as the third/last circle in the second row. The width of the exclusion zone must be at least the diameter of a circle.

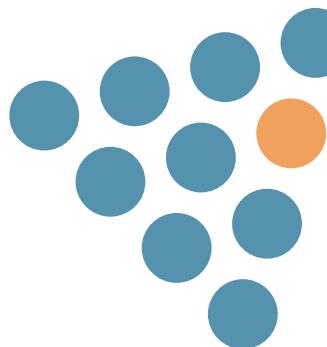

angle of rotation

The logo is rotated at a 15° angle.

primary brandmark

The primary mark is to be used with the standard mark anatomy and colors.

secondary brandmark

Used in monochrome and whiteout situations, the secondary mark is similar to the primary mark, but the accent circle is replaced with an outlined circle.

Stroke = $1/8$ of Circle Diameter

05 logo + marks

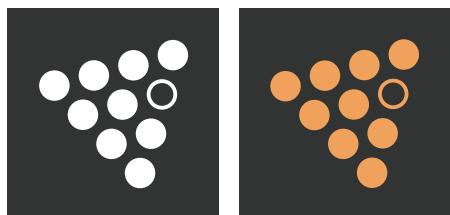

monochrome brandmarks

For situations in which monochrome marks are necessary, use the secondary mark style. On a white or light background, only use BC Blue, BC Orange, or Dark Grey monochrome marks.

whiteout brandmarks

For situations in which a dark background is necessary, use the secondary mark in White. (If White is not the best choice for the background/environment, use BC Orange.)

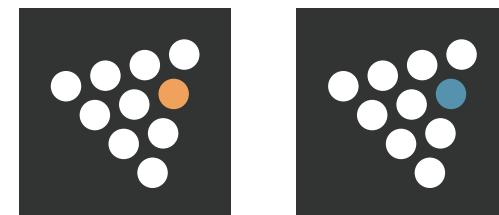

1st Preference

2nd Preference

alternative brandmarks

For situations in which a dark background is necessary and a monochrome mark is not desired, use the primary mark style with White and the accent color, BC Orange.

wordmark

The word-only 'bluecrew' wordmark is used rarely on its own, but is used in both left-aligned and center-aligned lockups. The words 'blue' and 'crew' should always be differentiated, unless in a monochrome situation with a monochrome brandmark (see lockups).

A label 'Exclusion Zone (if unaccompanied)' points to the top right corner of the 'e'.
